

THE FANG
1949

To suggest the beauty, the growth, and the service of our school in a reminiscent way, and to incorporate within these pages the spirit of youth and the hope of the future has been the motive of this book.

We owe much to the great gifts of Mother Nature from which has come the foundation of our progress. We owe even more to those people who have made use of those gifts. Since the beauty and the leading industry of East Texas come from the forest, we wish to dedicate this 1949 volume of THE FANG to the forestry service, to the lumber industry, and to all of our patrons who have helped to make this a bigger and better school.

To the Students of Lufkin High School

East Texas yields its bounties of oil, lumber, and cotton. But its greatest wealth is found not in its material products or its great natural resources, but in the intelligence, industry, and spiritual force of its citizens.

As you grow to maturity and join that group who will secure, fashion, and trade in these resources, it is our hope you will do so with that quality of mind, that zeal for diligence, and that consecration of spirit which will make this section of Texas truly great.

It is our desire that as a product of the Lufkin High School you may have and will acquire those attributes which will insure your contribution to the development here of a rich and beautiful land.

Sincerely,

Geo. H. Wells, Superintendent

LUFKIN HIGH SCHOOL

To The Student Body:

Someone has said, "Great Oaks from Little Acorns Grow". How true, in school life as well as in the forest. You are now in the process of growth, both in mind and body. The degree of proficiency you will ultimately reach is determined only by the effort put forth by you. A tree will grow much more rapidly when properly cultivated. So it is with you, both in mind and body. Are you willing to give your mind plenty of exercise? Now is the time to do it.

My hope for each of you is; that you attain great heights on the ladder of success.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in dark ink, appearing to read "W. H. Keene". The signature is written in a cursive style with a large, stylized "W" and "K".

The Forty-Niners

"The '49ers," a pageant, was written by Leon Pinkerton and presented by the Senior Class of '49.

"The 49ers" was given as a dedication program when the Senior Class presented six benches to the school.

Madelaine McDermott and Max Rucker, Senior Assembly Chairmen presided at the program. George Culbertson was the speaker.

The historical episodes of the '49ers crossing the plains, the attacks from the Indians, and their rescue were brought out in the pageant.

Baptist Barn Frolic Banquet March 3, 1949

The Barn Frolic Banquet was sponsored by the Woman's Missionary Union of the First Baptist Church. Under the direction of Mrs. Coy John Key, toastmistress, everyone took part in the food and the fun.

The highlights of the evening were:

Song Fest led by Mrs. J. L. Bradford
Reading Selections by Helen Holmes from Mary Hardin Baylor College
Special Music by Royce and Myrtle Curtis from East Texas Baptist College
An address "Why Christian Education?" by Dr. W. R. White, Pres. Baylor University.

DOWN IN THE OLD CORRAL

Once a year all of the ranchers and cow hands of the Lufkin Range gather for the annual shindig and official Roundup. The Lore of the West reigns supreme for one day.

Sheriff Hubbard keeps all cow hands in order for the day, and commands them to be present for the pay off at the gym that night.

Pineywoods - entertains

Educational talks, delightful entertainment, and delicious food-- they all go with the Pineywood's Banquet. Sponsored by the Pineywood's Business College under the direction of Mr. G. P. Scoggins, the banquet is one that the Seniors always look forward to.

Some of the highlights of the program were the interesting remarks by the toastmaster, Mr. W. C. Royle, a talk by Mr. I. A. Coston, and music by Mrs. Louise Merrit and songs by Tony Bill Martin

Cafeteria Scenes

Jennie Dorman checks books while Mrs. Garner works.

Charles Ware, Mary Hayes, Christene McGaughey use the catalogue.

Lauraan White and Winnie Freeman take instructions from Mrs. Garner. John Henderson and Barbara Reddit study.

The PIONEERING SPIRIT Still Prevails!

LIKE a gleaming thread woven into the pattern of Texas history is the pioneering spirit of the first trail blazers. Homesteaders . . . the stage coach . . . the first Texas cattlemen . . . carrying their hopes and dreams on to new frontiers. This same pioneering spirit was evidenced by the group of men who, back in 1913, built the state's first high-voltage electric power transmission line, bringing with it a new era of development for farm, business and industry. This high-voltage transmission line was the forerunner of the network of power lines of Texas Power & Light Company destined to cover a 52-county area in North, Central and East Texas. Through the years, this company has continued to pioneer . . . in rural electrification, in agricultural development and in industrial development.

In the beginning, Texas Power & Light Company served 13 cities and towns.

Today, 466 cities, towns and communities in the richest and most populous section of the state are joined together by TP&L's high-voltage transmission lines. More than 235,000 Texans, of whom 68,000 live on farms and in rural areas, enjoy more comfortable, prosperous living through TP&L's low-cost, dependable electric service.

Because of this widespread distribution of electric power, manufacturing plants may locate in the section best suited to their industrial needs . . . and thus take advantage of the wide diversity of Texas' raw materials and natural resources, labor, transportation facilities and many other advantages found in the state.

Contributing more to a higher standard of living and the furtherance of community prosperity than any other single factor . . . TP&L electric service is vital to the growth and development of the area it serves.

With the foresight and vision of careful business management, this company is constantly planning and preparing for the future needs of the farms, homes, businesses and industries that are making Texas the great state it is today.
