Sabinetown Philosopher

Says Russian Propaganda Can't Sweep Him Off His Feet He's Off Now

Editor's note: The Sabinetown Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on the Sabine river turns his thoughts to a world problem, his letter this week indicates. Anything to avoid farming.

Dear editor:

I was reading in a newspaper I borrowed out of my neighbor's mail box the other day and returned before he got there - there's one thing you can say for reading a neighbor's newspaper, it's like looking at a sunset, you're looking at it doesn't lessen the fun he can have from looking at the same thing, although I'll admit you don't have to subscribe to the sun, however on the other hand you'd miss a lot of information by confining your reading to it - at any rate, to get on with this I was reading how Russia has scored a great propaganda victory by announcing it is suspending all atom and hydrogen bomb tests, which I suspect is sort of like a man's saying he's suspending plowing on this year's crop, along in the fall of the year when it's already in his barn.

This news has upset a lot of people, who are afraid it will sweep the world and convince everybody Russia is a dove of peace and the United States an orgie out to poison the atmosphere.

Well now I'll tell you, I don't believe it. In the first place, anybody who believes Russia, on anything she's unwilling to let free men check up on, is a mighty poor prospect for basing the foundations of world freedom on. If Russia can sweep you off your feet with boasts, you are tottering already and probably don't know the difference between up and down. There's a difference between conquering space and the hearts of men. And in the second place, a propaganda victory is one of the most temporary things there is.

I've seen politicians who rode into office on propaganda, and some of them stay there a long time on that, but in the final analysis the people catch on.

And as for people who are swayed by propaganda, like the people who invariably vote for the last man they heard speak just before the election. You'll lose em the next time somebody else speaks.

Understand, I don't know anything about testing hydrogen bombs. I don't even know how to test for a stuck valve on my tractor or guess what a teenager will do next, but I learned long ago the only satisfactory way to get along in life is to figure out what is right for you and go ahead, regardless of what anybody else thinks. I don't care how shining a speech a man makes at a luncheon club, if he doesn't pay his bills, most folks soon catch on he's a deadbeat. You can borrow money on promises, but you demonstrate your worth only when you pay it back in cash.

Any nation you can win by propaganda alone, well, you ain't won much when you get it.

There's nothing under the sun or in the newspapers Russia can say that'll sweep me off my feet. I'm the one decides when I'll get off my feet, and I decide it frequently.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

CHEVY TAMES THE TOUGHEST TRANSCONTINENTAL HIGHWAY!

'58 Chevrolet station wagon with 250-h.p. Turbo-Thrust* engine. Arrives down to the dock at Buenos Aires, Argentina, ready for record-setting run across South America to Valparaiso, Chile, and back.

Heading for the freezing Andes, with hood sealed shut by officials of Automobile Club of Argentina, Chevy arrows across Mendoza desert in 98-degree heat. Not one drop of oil or water was added during run!

Turboglide* shows its velvet competence in fantastic foothills of Andes. Jolt-free powerflow of triple-turbine transmission was particularly important in keeping traction on hundreds of gravel turns.

Mighty Turbo-Thrust V8 seemed virtually unaware of astonishing grades up to 30 percent. Even at summit, 12,572 feet high, drivers found terrific reserves of torque from its 348-cubic-inch displacement.

Powdery dust of Argentina's tale mine country proved value of High-Level ventilation, with air intake high above road. Ultra-efficient air cleaner protected V8 from smallest abrasive particles.

Precision of Chevy's famous Ball-Race steering was a lifesaver on cliff-edge curves; its silk-smooth ease sharply reduced driver fatigue. Vital safety factor was full panoramic visibility of windshield.

Racking hairpin turns on Chilean slope of Andes tested superior torsional strength of Chevy's new Safety-Girder frame, demonstrated the better road-holding permitted by its lower center of gravity.

Jumbo-Drum brakes got a real workout in emergency stops for roving livestock, loose boulders, stream gullies cut across road. Drivers particularly liked Turboglide's special Grade Retarder on long hills.

Full Coil suspension, with a deep coil spring at each wheel, took big rocks and deep chuckholes in stride. Stability of four-link rear suspension held car true and steady on worst sections of road.

Turnaround at Valparaiso on Pacific—and car starts return leg of trip called impossible by A.C.A. experts! Engine was never stopped, oil dip-stick still said "full" at end of 1,900-mile test!

You don't have to cross the Andes to discover Chevy's remarkable ease of handling, riding smoothness and performance. Just see your Chevrolet dealer for a test run.

You'll get the best buy on the best seller!

Frank Carpenter

made this increase possible.

Other accomplishments during his legislative tenure were passage of the Texas Business Corporation Act, a major revision and modernization of our corporate laws, passage of water legislation recommended by the Texas Water Conservation Committee, vital assistance in the passage of the 1955 Securities Act under which the U. S. Trust and Guaranty Company was successfully stopped from preying on the Texas public, and many other bills of wide public interest. He established a reputation for fairness to all and carefully analyzed all factors for and against pending legislation so that his decision to support or oppose a bill would be made in the light of what he thought would be best for the people of his district and of the State as a whole. He was never a member of any group or clique but he worked for what he thought was right regardless of pressures or personalities on the opposing side. He was as active in opposing or revising legislation that tended to favor monopoly or limit individual rights as he was in supporting legislation that was in the public interest.

A firm believer in a master water conservation plan for each major watershed in the state, Frank Carpenter is in favor of dams to conserve water as far upstream as is economically feasible. He favors construction of McGee Bend Dam and all other dams that would have sufficient economic value. He also favors improved educational facilities at all levels, continuation of the construction of an adequate highway system, and reasonable wage and salary schedules for State employees. He is opposed to a general sales tax and a state income tax.

"I am offering my services as State Senator," he says, "because I think that I can represent all of the people of my district fairly, honestly and efficiently. I feel that my business and legislative experience, my established contacts with a substantial majority of the members of both the Senate and the House of Representatives, and my sincere interest in people and their problems, will enable me to render valuable service to the district and the State of Texas as a whole. My campaign will be based on my record in office, my personal reputation for integrity, ability and fairness and a pledge to continue in the office of State Senator the same vigorous, impartial and effective leadership that I exhibited as a member of the House of Representatives. I expect to conduct an active campaign but I know that it will be impossible for me to meet and talk with all of the voters of the district so I ask that, if you do not know me or do not meet me, please ask about me from someone who does know me."

Be sure your telephone is resting on a firm place. 3. When papering or cleaning, be careful to cover your telephone with a cloth.
