As this school year draws to a close, once again we have the pleasure—though sad in a way—of sending our best wishes to the graduating class of Hunting High School.

As always, all of us in business here have enjoyed each of you during your years of schooling. For it is each of you and your parents that go to make up the heart of our fine community. Though we hate to lose such a good group, it is our sincere hope that each of you will continue your schooling by enrolling in one of the state's fine colleges or universities this Fall. Education at the college level is a must in this day of space and the atom. Do not, even for a minute, think otherwise.

Go forth and use your talents wisely; remember lessons learned in your youth from your parents; and remember, too, that there are many opportunities here in our own East Texas when you have completed your college work.

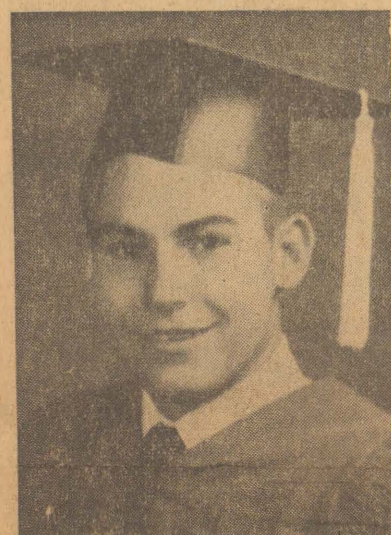

Most of all, remember that we are all proud of you and that you will always be welcome back in your old hometown!
