Owens-Illinois begins operation

Owens-Illinois, Inc.'s multi-million dollar plywood plant designed and built to serve the growing market for southern pine plywood, had begun operation, the company announced today.

The modern wood complex which will supply logs for the plant and wood chips for Owens-Illinois big containerboard mill at Orange, also is in operation.

The 200,000-square-foot facility, Owens-Illinois 105th domestic plant and its sixth in Texas, made its first plywood right on schedule, George B. Gible, general manager of plywood products, who will manage the facility here as well as the company's plywood plant in Lufkin, said today.

"Employment in the plant and the woodyard complex now is at 80, but is expected to exceed 200 people when the plant is in full operation," Mr. Gible said. "Payrolls and locally purchased materials and services are expected to add at least $6 million annually to the economy of this area once the plant is in full production."

The new plant, located on a 70-acre site on Highway 63 East, just outside the city limits, is capable of producing 100 million square feet of plywood annually and has been built so that it can be expanded to a capacity of 150 million square feet, Mr. Gible pointed out.

The plant will turn out sheathing grade plywood for roof decking, floor construction, and general construction, as well as high quality sanded plywood for cabinets, table tops and decorative products.

"More than half of the wood used in the plant will be bought on the open market while the remainder will come from the company's more than 280,000 acres of timberlands in southeast Texas and southwest Louisiana," Mr. Gible said. "Like the Lufkin plant, Jasper will use older and larger trees that should be harvested but which are more valuable for plywood than for pulpwood."

In addition to Mr. Gible, other Owens-Illinois executives associated with the new plant and woodyard complex are George H. Middleton, production manager, and James N. Turpin, manager of wood processing.

In announcing in October, 1969, that it planned to build the plant here, Owens-Illinois said the Jasper Industrial Development Foundation and the Jasper Chamber of Commerce played major roles in its selection of Jasper as the site of its second plywood plant. The company also praised the "progressive spirit" of Jasper civic, business, industrial, and government leaders.

"Jasper's cooperative and forward-looking attitude displayed from the first contact we made in investigating the possibility of building a new plant, was a major factor in our decision to build at Jasper," Mr. Gible said.

Mr. Gible said leading citizens joined O-I executives in welcoming the first load of wood to the Jasper woodyard. Jasper countians helping celebrate the start-up of the new facility included:

Mayor M. P. Hancock of Jasper; State Representative, Don Adams; County Commissioner, Doyle Hancock; County Judge T. Gilbert Adams; Mayor Pro Tem W. L. Neal; T. W. Herbst, First State Bank; Virgil Martindale, wood producer; J. L. Billingsley, of Billingsley Auto Supply; S. Coleman, of the Chamber of Commerce; Wayne Stephenson, president of the Jasper Chamber of Commerce; Jasper City Manager Wayne DuBose; A. B. Chapman, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce's Industrial Committee; J. S. Harper, Chamber of Commerce director; William C. Elmore, Manager of the Chamber of Commerce, and B. F. Whitworth, immediate past president of the Chamber. Owens-Illinois people participating in the opening ceremonies included Mr. Gible, T. S. Hughes, area wood procurement manager; D. M. Norton, Resident Forest superintendent; and L. P. Shelton, Director of wood procurement for western woodlands.

Martindale's nephew drowned

The search was still continuing last week for the body of Vince Kevin Schnurpel of El Campo, the nephew of Stone Martindale of Jasper, who apparently drowned June 19th in the Gulf of Mexico.

The seven-year old Schnurpel was the grandson of Mrs. Johnnie Schnurpel—formerly Miss Johnnie Martindale.

The second-grader was on a family beach outing near Matagorda and was floating on a rubber raft with a younger brother when he apparently slipped off into the choppy surf.

occurred near an area called Three-Mile Lake because of its approximate distance from the mouth of the Colorado River.

Other survivors in Jasper include Vince Elkins, Mrs. J. D. Phillips and other relatives.

"MISS HAWKINS-34 YEARS" — With those words Mattie L. Hawkins has retired from teaching.

'First-Ever' Road Rally here July 11th

The First-Ever Lakes District Road Rally will be hosted by a Jasper Explorer Post 268 Saturday, July 11.

The actual rally will start at 8:30 a.m. the day of the event.

However, since not everybody knows exactly what one does when one rallies, Gil Tubb, sponsor of the Post, will be teaching Road Rally Instructions at the Jasper Service Center on Wheeler St. at 7:30 p.m.

Rally materials provided by Lincoln-Mercury will be distributed and special how-to instructions will be provided.

All team members should attend this meeting.

Tubb said that post plans for a maximum of fifty cars. The rally course covers 107 miles over various type roads, with a barbecue dinner at the end if you make it.

"We hope that each post can field at least one car."

Tubb noted that registration would be on a first-come, first-served basis, with a fee of $3 per car, and which includes both the rally and the barbecue.

The barbecue is the official stopping point of the road rally. Trophies will be presented after the meal about 7:30 p.m.

Trophies are being provided through the courtesy of Morgan-Kent Ford of Jasper. The Beaumont Sports Car Club is also participating in the promotion of the event and will help with judging and scoring.

"Come and try your skill," said Tubb.

"All you can get is lost and never find your way out of some decrepit, deserted logging trail."

Mattie Hawkins, at Rowe 27 years, retires

By Mike Plake
News-Boy Editor

In front of Mattie Hawkins lay a large display of cookies, cakes and coffee and a slender ribbon of letters that denoted the occasion:

"Miss Hawkins—34 years."

She looked around her classroom at J. F. Parnell Elementary School for the last time. In the back of her mind she recalled the contrast between its solid, clean brick walls and sturdy, metal-and-wood desks and the times years ago in Rowe Elementary when the principal of the school helped her find apple carts for students who had no desks.

"I began the year 1942 in J. H. Rowe School with 82 students, aged five through seven years, she recalled.

"My classroom was large, seated with forty or forty-five desks, and one long table.

"But that wasn't half enough space to accommodate the number of students.

"With the assistance of my principal, Mr. J. H. Rowe, we collected apple boxes and converted them into little seats.

"We painted Mother Goose Rhymes on each seat," she said.

Mattie Hawkins taught 27 years at Rowe Elementary under three principals—J. H. Rowe, Sherman Coleman, P. V. Malone—then worked under yet another during her last year at Parnell Elementary—Leon Rose.

She earned the B. S. in Elementary Education from Prairie View A&M College in 1932 and the Master of Education in Elementary Education in 1954.

During those three decades of teaching, she has seen classroom enrollment dip as low as thirty and as high as eighty-two.

"The greater the number, the better the behavior patterns," she said.

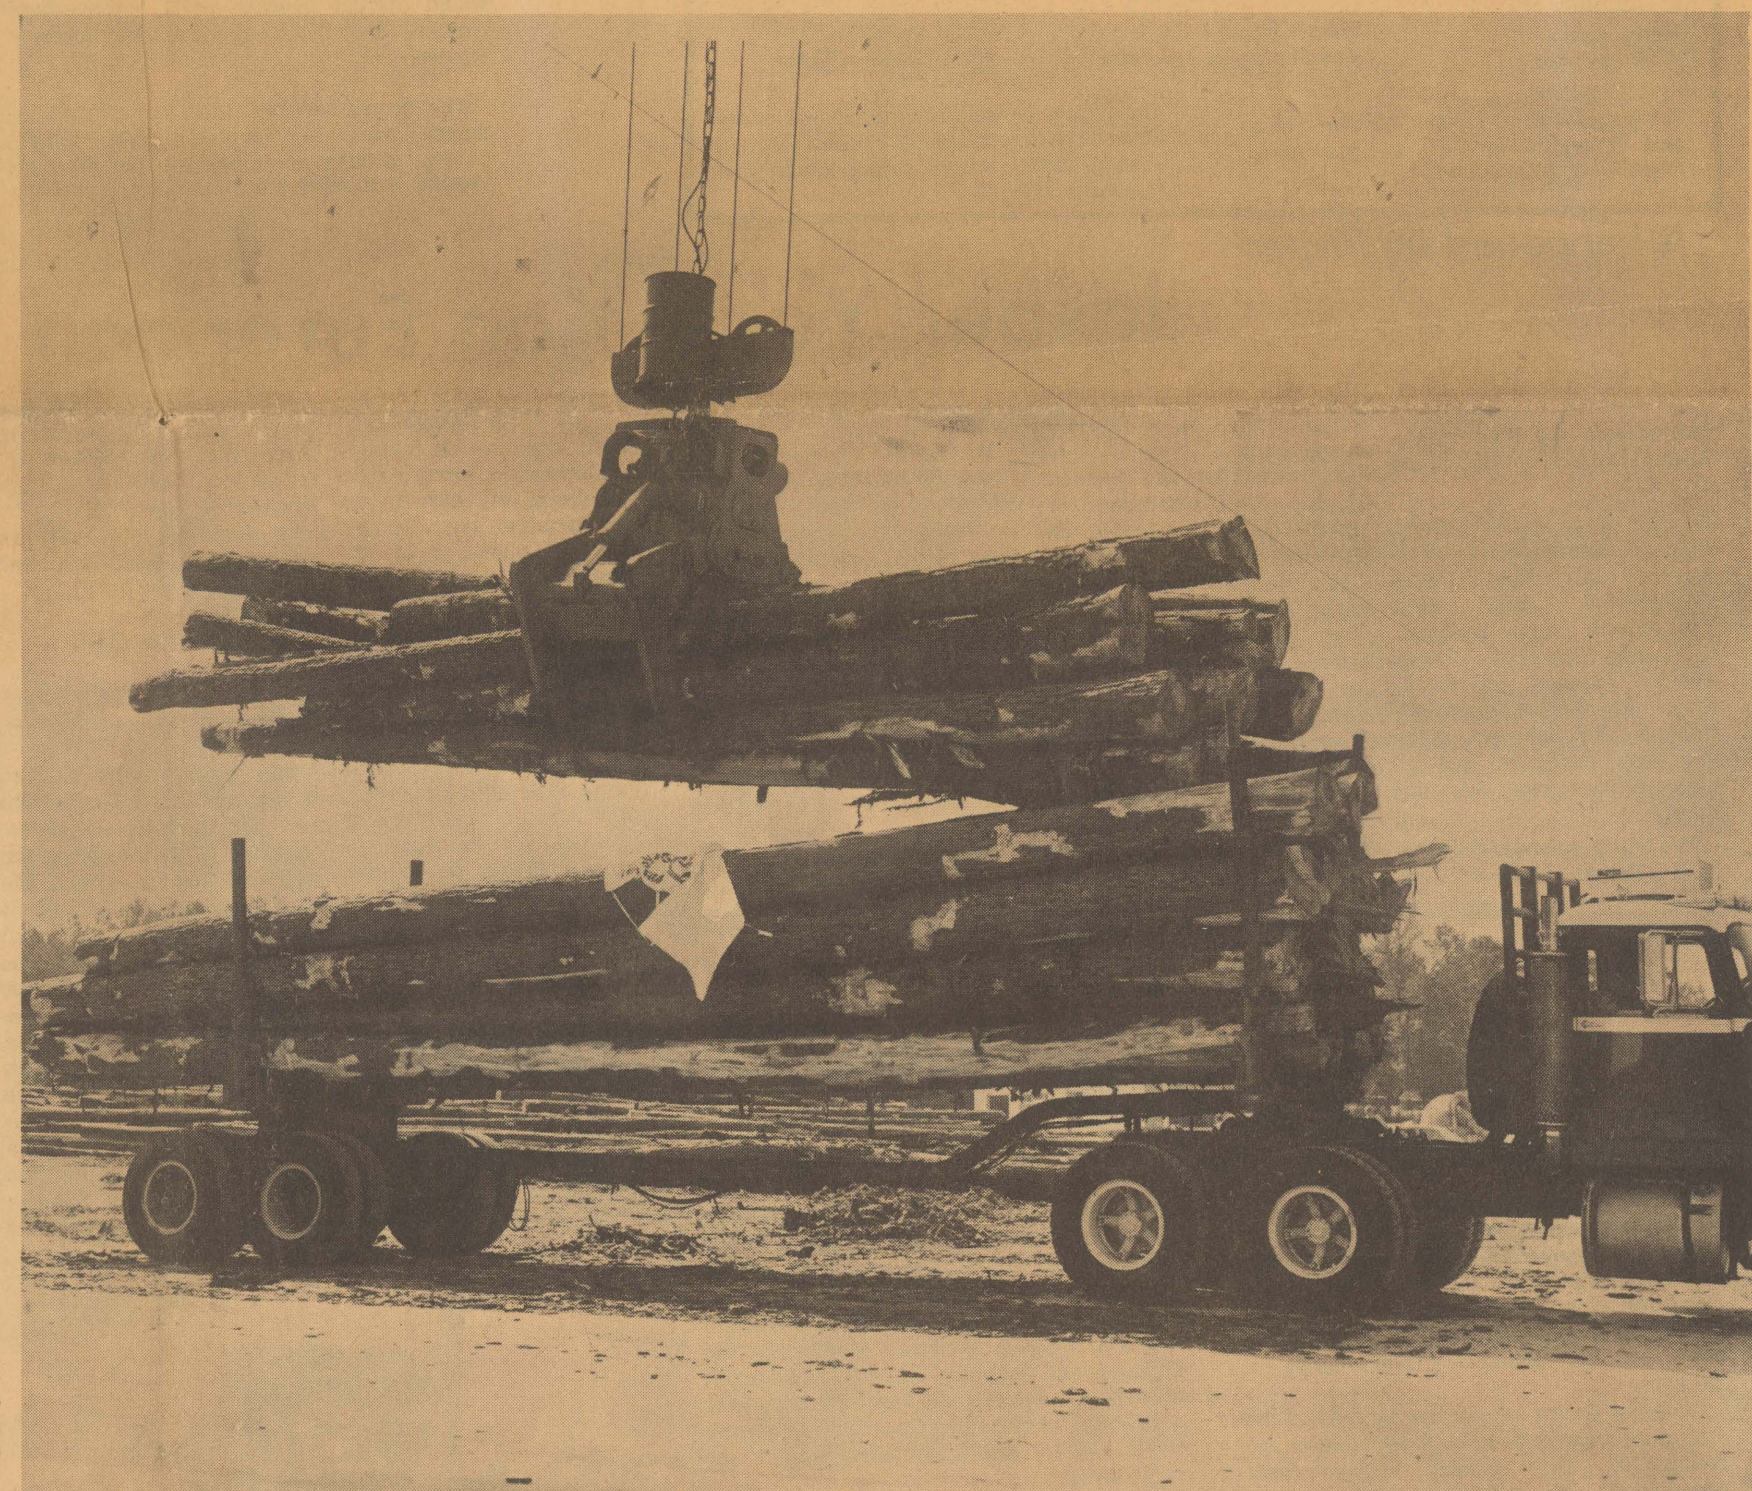

In retirement, Mattie said she plans to travel extensively and enjoy her hobbies of horticulture, reading and fishing.

"I want to give many, many thanks to the Jasper School District and to all the personnel with whom I have worked."

Mrs. Mattie L. Hawkins has retired.

Facing her at her residence in 2709 Barbee Street in Houston, Texas is a new life, full of possibilities. She's wondering if the next thirty years will be like the last.

3404 persons paid poll taxes and have the right to vote in the elections in Jasper county this year, according to a final list compiled by T. B. House, assessor and collector of taxes. In addition to these poll tax payers, there are a small number of "newly 21's" who can vote with out poll tax receipts, as well as many over the age of 60 on Jan. 1, 1945.

The appearance on the streets last Thursday of a Ford car, with no number plates, occupied by men wearing the well known white robes of the Ku Klux Klan, created a great deal of excitement and curiosity. Not a word was spoken, but a bugle sounded at frequent intervals. On the sides of the car were banners saying that the Ku Klux Klan would visit the town at 9 o'clock that night.

Promptly at 9 o'clock a procession appeared at the south ford, another from a westerly direction, and a third from the east. They joined at the northeast corner of the square and marched east. At intervals men carried banners with such mottoes as "The Follow Us, It Will Be at Your Peril."

Wednesday morning the baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Giles McKinnon was poisoned when she ate some bread that had been covered with ant poison. The accident happened at the home of Mrs. L. L. Winton, the child's grandmother, in Kirbyville. The child went alone to the icechest, and seeing the bread that had been put out as a bait to the ants, ate of it. She immediately became sick and a physician was called. The last report is that the child is out of danger.

Mr. John Mays has just completed another residence in the southern part of town, across the creek. It is a neat five-room house, the kind needed for the average family. Dr. James A. Bledsoe of Port Arthur came up Tuesday to visit his little son, Carl Thomas, who is making his home with his grandmother, Mrs. Mamie Patten.

Sheriff Beaver Bishop says that it is a good thing the present District Court is disposing of so many shinnery makers and sellers, because if they don't, we will have to enlarge the jail. Every case tried this term has resulted in a conviction, and somebody suggested that the sheriff would have to charter a train to take them to the penitentiary.

VIEWPOINTS

Auto's future will affect the country

Few things had a greater impact on American life than the arrival of the automobile. Almost overnight, the horseand buggy days of country lanes and quiet roads began to give way to the gas buggy. As a hard surfaced highway network spread from the cities to every hamlet, the mobility of the auto changed the face of the nation. For nearly three quarters of a century, the automobile industry has been the focal point of growth and change.

Some now see indications that the Golden Age of the auto is losing its shine. Two staff writers, Laurence O'Donnell and Walter Mossberg of the Wall Street Journal, write of the "Decelerating Autos" and give as reasons rising costs, environmental considerations and changing attitudes of people. Another reason they give for a possible slowdown in auto industry growth is "... that Detroit has done its job well, that it has gone a long way toward satisfying the basic demand of America for wheels. About 80 percent of all U.S. families already own at least one car, and nearly a third own two or more." Of course, Messrs. O'Donnell and Mossberg are quick to add, "Nobody is suggesting...that the nation's auto population—now more than 80 million—is suddenly headed for zero growth...new family formations and the suburban way almost certainly mean continued demand for more autos."

But the analysts and the experts see problems ahead for the industry that could once again alter the American style of living. Inflation is wiping out a measure of the economies of mass production. Automobiles are becoming increasingly expensive. People are likely to make their old cars run longer, and as The Journal writers add, "...a variety of new pressures, attitudes and moods could also hold down the number of cars people buy." Aside from rising costs, there are factors such as "... less excitement about cars, growing congestion in urban areas, and various steps by the government to change the design of cars and discourage their use." These design changes, as well as inflation promise to hit the price tags of new autos hard. Auto emissions will push up prices another $500 per car in the next few years. One executive declared that the big problem facing Detroit is how to produce safer, cleaner and sturdier cars "without pricing our products beyond what they are worth to our customers or what our customers can afford to pay."

From the standpoint of auto owners, there are other costs of owning a car which are rising. These include insurance, gasoline and depreciation. The latter costs have risen 34 percent since 1961. These rising costs plus inflation could result in unforeseen shifts in the social and economics structure of the country and in the magnitude of environmental questions. Currently, there is one car for every 2.5 American, compared with one for every 10 people in Europe and one for every 20 in Japan. If cost pressures and government restrictions end in lowering the ratio of cars to population, theoretically at least it might stem the pollution problem would be somewhat less.

Events, however, have a way of confounding even the most expert of observers. There are those, who far from seeing a slower growth of the auto industry in future years, see greater growth. Another Wall Street Journal staff reporter finds that, "The ecology war against autos could have an ironic long range effect. It might increase car sales."

He cites auto analysts who believe the crackdown on auto pollution will result in the introduction of new engines. In the past such innovations have always helped sales.

An auto marketing official in Detroit estimates that "a brand-new concept" of power supply might result in 10 percent more sales. Whatever happens in the automobile industry, whether the Golden Age of the gas buggy draws to a close or whether a new age opens, one thing seems certain. A country that is geared to the mobility of the automobile as closely as is the United States will be affected to an incalculable extent.

Politicking the timber harvest

Measures have been proposed in Congress to declare a two-year moratorium on "clear-cutting" on federal forest lands. Clearcutting is a technique integral to the success of long range forest industry operations and to the perpetuation of healthy, productive forest lands. Declaring a moratorium on this particular type of timber harvesting procedure would be a typical case of dropping a monkey wrench into the gears of a finely-built machine. It takes many decades for present-day forest management techniques to evolve. To decree that a certain portion of these techniques must be eliminated for two years would disrupt overall forest management policies. Such is the opinion of many forestry experts.

The economist for a national timber industry association explains that, "Clear-cutting is such an important tool for harvesting and regenerating timber... and the timber from the national forests is such an important segment of the total softwood timber supply that a moratorium would mean an immediate reduction of at least 25 percent of the volume of timber going into the nation's wood-using industries." The economist pointed out that such a reduction would result in sharp price rises of wood products and increased building costs. Speaking of the various "tools" of present-day timber harvesting, he commented, "The actual choice of which tool is used is determined by characteristics of the species. Some tree species are light-demanding and will not grow in the shade of taller trees. Among these is the Douglas fir..." Both industry and forest service officials believe that clearcutting is essential where stands of timber have been adversely affected by wind, fire and old age.

The political arena is the wrong place to resolve technical questions relating to the harvesting of timber.

Jacking up wages

Many voices have spoken in opposition to the arbitrary jacking up of wages through the device of perennial amendments to the wage and hour law. With each increase in the minimum wage, there has been a general escalation in wage levels and an increase in unemployment among certain classes of workers.

Congress is now considering increasing the minimum wage to $2.00—and the protests are rolling in. The nation's largest farm organization, the American Farm Bureau Federation, has called the proposal for an increase in the minimum wage "counter-productive." In a formal statement before a Congressional Subcommittee holding hearings on the subject, the Farm Bureau warns that, "An increase in the minimum wage increases the number of people who are unemployed at the minimum wage level—and at other higher fixed wage levels resulting from the upward push of minimum wages on the wage structure. Members of the Congress and the public are concerned about the depopulation of many rural areas and the desirability of reversing this trend. Minimum wages have a great (adverse) impact in rural areas..."

The Farm Bureau, as the leading farm organization of the nation, speaks from hard experience. And the words of its spokesman should be heeded when they warn that another increase in the minimum wage would be "counter-productive"

How 'Lifeguard' was a service

An example of how 'Operation Lifeguard' performed an important community service was recently noted in a letter to Jasper County Sheriff, R. C. Powell:

Dear Sheriff:

"Mr. Tom Lynch, members of the Hand Family and I thank you, the crew of the search plane and all others who helped to locate Rev. Ray Hand and members of his family on Sam Rayburn Lake last Sunday.

Mr. Lynch called me at 8:05 A.M. wanting help in locating Rev. Hand to deliver a death message. Members of the family had searched for them the night before without success. At 10:05 A.M. Mr. Lynch called me to tell me that they had heard the search plane and had called you. This is a fine example of outstanding public service and you and the other public spirited citizens of your area are to be commended for this service.

With kindest personal regards, I am

Sincerely yours,
Fred H. Prestage"

FOR FRESH TASTE

The STRENGTH of a Nation...

At this time, our thoughts are turned to our nation and the war that was fought to bring freedom to our land. Pictured here is a monument to the leader of our people at that time. The people were willing to give their lives that we might be free from tyranny, and have the right to worship as we please. God was with us then as he was with the children of Israel when Moses led them from Egypt. Upon receiving their freedom they sang... "The Lord is my strength and song, and he is become my salvation; he is my God, and I will exalt him." Exodus 15:2

Help keep our Nation strong by relying on the strength of the Lord. Attend Church Regularly.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Jasper County Philosopher

Pentagon is on to a good thing

Editor's note: The Jasper County Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sandy Creek takes a look at a current controversy this week with his own brand of insight.

Dear editor:

I had always thought that "Classified" was something you paid for in a newspaper's Want-Ad section and wanted people to read, but like everyone else in the country who has seen a newspaper or watched television recently I've learned that Classified means something the Pentagon considers secret and doesn't want anybody else to read.

However in the uproar over the publication of the Vietnam classified documents from 47 volumes (some people wonder what the Pentagon needs with 50 or 60 billion dollars a year but they don't understand the details; have you ever figured up how many rubber stamps it takes to stamp 15 sets of 47 volumes containing 7,000 pages with words Top Secret-Classified?) there's one point it looks like everybody is missing.

The point is, how come the Pentagon is the only outfit with the right to stamp something Classified and thereby make it against the law for outsiders to see it?

Personally I'd like to see this right extended, even if a man has to buy his own rubber stamp. Probably could get one at a government surplus sale.

For example, take a man's credit rating. If anything ought to be classified, that should. When a mail order house wants you to buy something on credit and you'd like to too but it first insists on seeing your credit rating, you ought to have the right to say you're sorry but that information is classified but go ahead and fill the order.

If there was some way I could stamp my bank balance Classified and keep some bookkeeper or computer from looking at it, I wouldn't care how high taxes got or how far inflation went.

The Pentagon is on to a good thing and I'm in favor of passing it around.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Miss Nina Jill Cohn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max A. Cohn, became the bride of Jimmy Lee Rose, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Rose, all of Jasper, on Saturday, June 26. The Reverend Ervin MacIn of Jasper performed the double wedding ring ceremony. The wedding was held on the lawn of the bride's home on Sandy Lane, before a background of magnolia, flanked on either side with white pillars holding pots of mixed summer flowers.

Her jewelry was a cameo necklace which belonged to her paternal grandmother. She wore a shoulder length tulle veil and carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses.

On Sunday, the twentieth of June, Judy Frances Fullen became the bride of James Nor Eddine Kadmiri of France. Vows were exchanged in the First Baptist Church, in downtown Houston, Texas, and the ceremony was officiated by the Rev. Joe Hawn.

Judy is the daughter of Mrs. Ester Fullen and the late Walter Fullen of Jasper. She is a graduate of Jasper High School, class of 1970, and has been employed as an insurance secretary in Houston for the past year.

James is a graduate of Ecole du centre (CEP degree), Lycee Technique (M.U.C.F. degree) College Ibn Tofail (CAP degree), and Ecole des Officiers de la Marine Marchande (B. d'officier Mecanicien degree). He is now employed in Houston as an electrical engineer.

The couple plan to make their home in Houston.

Sims reunion will be July 4th

The Annual Sims Reunion will convene Sunday, July 4th, at the Sheffield Ferry Bridge. All descendants and friends of A. C. Sims are invited. A basket lunch will be spread at noon.

Group to meet

Mrs. Selma Russell, 246 Lela Street, will be hostess for the meeting of the W. H. Fortney Group of Baptist Women of the First Baptist Church to be held Tuesday, July 6, at 7:30 p.m. A Royal Service program on "The Spanish Baptist Dilemma" will be presented under the leadership of Mrs. Irene Smith.

Jasper artist's work on display at banquet

Mrs. David Henderson of Jasper, prominent Texas artist, recently completed her tenure as President of China Painting Teachers of Texas, and much of her work was on display in Kilgore at an exhibit recently. At a banquet there, when she handed over the gavel, she was presented a clock from the Black Forest in Germany.

Mrs. Henderson has achieved wide recognition in art circles in the south and southwest. Her original technique in achieving "Christmas red" in china painting is a much sought after skill among her contemporaries. She is in great demand as a visiting demonstrator of landscapes and portraits, and will go to the Baton Rouge Porcelain Art Club in November. She has been asked to conduct classes there, as she usually does when she demonstrates.

On countless occasions, Mrs. Henderson has demonstrated at the State Fair of Texas, as well as the major cities of our State.

Newton honored her on Saturday, the 26th of June, at their 125th anniversary celebration with a special surprise exhibit of oil paintings and china paintings over a period of years by Newton students of hers.

Even though Mrs. Henderson's art interest take her out of town often, she spends a great deal of time at her studio at 132 North Austin, Jasper. She loves the time spent with her students, as well as that time she spends just painting. To her, "a thing of beauty is a joy forever", especially if its translated onto a canvas with a paintbrush.

Jewels plan luncheon

Jasper Jewels president, Mr. H. A. Poole, is announcing that a noon luncheon meeting will be held at the Jasper Youth Center for the Club.

Speaker for the occasion will be Rev. Clint Hines, pastor of the Roganville Baptist Church, and also President of the Texas Nursing Home Association.

Members are asked to take note of the new meeting location, and all Senior Citizen members and other interested persons are invited to attend.
